“ When Josiah Sledd was a little tyke, he loved the film "Grandpa Worked on the Railroad" As soon as we got in the door of the library, he would start shouting, "Jim! You have Grandpa Worked on the Railroad. ? This went on every time we went there. Jim was always so kind to Josiah, getting the film he asked for. He was so pleasant to work with in the library. He will be missed by many.

“ Bob and Betty, I'm so sorry for your loss. Jim was always so helpful at the library. I enjoyed visiting with him when I saw him occasionally after he retired. As you know, your family has been special to me for many years and you all will be in my prayers during this difficult time.

“ Jim Stoops worked at the New Castle Public Library for many years. The patrons loved him for his knowledge of our fiction collection. He always knew who was writing what and when they had a new book coming out. He knew all of the series, what order the titles came in and even which patrons were reading which series and what book they would want next. Jim's often dour appearance hid a wonderful sense of humor that was enjoyed by the staff. He was also noted for his ability to consume treats that staff brought in. We knew there would be no leftovers if Jim was there and we envied that he still remained thin. Jim will be greatly missed and the library staff sends thoughts and prayers to his family and friends.

“ Jim was a dedicated library employee for many years. He was the go-to person when you needed to find a fiction book. Patrons and coworkers alike valued his knowledge of fiction including series and what order the titles came in and which book you would want next. I was always amazed that he could walk right up to the paperback racks and pull the exact book off that you couldn't find yourself.

Jim also had a great sense of humor. He could say things with a straight face that would have everyone laughing. I particularly looked forward to his hilarious birthday cards. He will certainly be missed!

“ Jim and I have been friends a long time - since grade school. Our homes were close. I lived on Grand Avenue and he lived on 14th Street. It was just a short walk to each other's home. Sometimes we would play in the Couden Funeral Home parting lot or in the back yard behind the Historical Society. I moved to Cincinnati and then to The Villages, Florida, but we always kept in touch. I will surely miss him.
